Frequently Asked Questions

Does it last?

Yes, with routine care your refinished surface should continue to look great for many years.

Will it look "painted"?

Definitely not! A properly refinished bathtub should be sprayed using an HVLP gun, which leaves a smooth shiny surface, just like a brand new tub.

How long does it take?

An average bathtub should take about 3 hrs to complete. This includes Masking off the rest of the room, Prepping the surface, repairing any damage, spraying on a new coating and unmasking when we finish.

Is there an odor?

Refinishing a bathtub does create an odor. When we arrive, we set up a powerful exhaust fan in the bathroom, and vent to a nearby window. While the refinishing is taking place, the smell is not noticeable. When we finish, there is a residual smell, which should dissipate in a few hours.

Do I need to leave?

Absolutely not. While many of our clients prefer to go to work or run errands while we are in their home, a great many wish to be home while any refinishing is being completed. Aside from the noise of the work being done, we try to limit any impact to your routine as we can.

What about those "DIY" kits?

It has been our experience that "DIY" kits simply do not hold up to even routine use. Without proper surface preparation and experience, they inevitably peel and discolor within a few short months. And even with proper preparation, they still look "painted" because the applicator is usually a roller or brush.

I'm having my bathroom remodeled, when should you refinish the tub?

We would prefer to be the last contractor in the bathroom. This way you can use the tub as a trash can and not worry about any damage to the surface after refinishing. We will cover up the toilet, sink, walls and floor before we begin.

Can you refinish Fiberglass?

Of course, whether it is a multiple piece surround and porcelain tub or a fiberglass tub with surround, we can repair any and all damage and make it look new again.

Can you apply anti-slip?

Yes we can. We can add a textured finish to any bathtub we refinish, the same day, or weeks down the line if you wish.
